LAWRANCE

Noé Duchaufour-Lawrance

The designer

Not content with merely being part of the production process, of the product's rationale...instead, Noé Duchaufour Lawrance wants each project to slot into an appropriate scenario, nourished without distinction by a use, a shape, a material, an aesthetic...A place where curve and straight line, sensuality and rigour come together in an encounter conducive to the creation of meaning and quite capable of engaging all our senses. Desirous of returning the notion of living to his objects and interior arrangements, Noé Duchaufour Lawrance views each project as an organic form which grows along with its user. Like a natural element which could, in turn, challenge human order and disorder.

Noé Duchaufour Lawrance often compares his approach to the niwa, the small garden which can be found at the heart of the traditional Japanese home. A breath of fresh air in a discipline primarily dedicated to responding to the requirements of industry, market or sponsor, he puts up no barriers in terms of the projects on which he works, as prompt to design objects of inspired lines for designer manufacturers (Ceccotti Collezioni, Cinna, Zanotta...) as he is to bring harmony to living spaces (Air France lounges, Ciel de Paris, the Yquem table at the Meurice, the La Transhumance chalet...) or even define a product image or window display for a prominent brand (Paco Rabanne, YSL Beauté, Perrier Jouët). Deeply influenced by art nouveau heritage, Noé Duchaufour Lawrance not only applies himself to the universal character of nature to impose lines which make sense, but also to the notion of total art now being fundamental to contemporary design.

Concept & technical description

Its obvious simplicity takes nothing away from its comfort, its capacity to keep the promise which is the destiny of all chairs. Comfortable, discreet, sturdy, and yet there is no sacrifice in terms of elegance. Its name, Lawrance, is in one sense a nod to the creator, and in another to the illustrious hero of the great epics – but this Lawrance, however, has the humility to remember that his name is spelt with an 'a'. N. Duchaufour-Lawrance.

Held in stock in the following fabrics: VERA lavande and VERA ébène.
May be upholstered to order in other covering materials/colours.
Stackable chair; metal base finished in Epoxy satin black lacquer.
